

The King of Clubs Person

*The King of Knowledge
Master of Distinctions Card*

Sitting atop the suit of knowledge, the King of Clubs holds everything needed to be an authority in any area they choose. These people have a direct line to knowledge accumulated from many past lives. Rarely do they live their life by any doctrine or philosophy other than their own. The well that feeds their minds is inexhaustible and from a high source. These are the people who live by their own truth.

They can be found in all types of professions, usually in positions of responsibility, always respected in whatever capacity they are engaged. Among their numbers are some of the most successful artists, statesmen and musicians in the world. One of their greatest assets is the ability to make fine distinctions and a witty and personable nature that usually makes them popular and well liked. They seem to do their best work with a partner, and most King of Clubs are destined to be in partnership.

This is the most psychic card in the deck - so much so that their intuitive approach to life is second nature. Their greatest challenges lie in the concept of marriage and the occasional habit of getting into a comfortable rut and not pushing themselves to actualize their highest potential. They have a lot to give to the world that can lead to regret in later life if it is not fully expressed.

Some of the King of Clubs Issues Concerning Relationships

The King of Clubs has basically good marriage karma and they love the feeling of being in a close relationship. However, there are aspects of marriage that are very challenging for them and one of the major ones is the part that tells them that in a marriage they will lose their personal freedom. Freedom is an important word for the King of Clubs, something to be treasured above all else, including a happy relationship in some cases. You might say that the King of Clubs has a problem around freedom, though it doesn't prevent all from getting married or settling down.

These strong willed and powerful people make fine distinctions with their minds. Anyone who is involved with them has to be able to handle this power and intensity without getting defensive, which is a challenging in many cases. For this reason, the women are more masculine oriented and in some cases domineering. It is sometimes difficult for them to find a partner with whom they can be themselves.
